TOILET ARTICLES. THE DUTY OF WOMAN.-TO BE

attractive is a duty which every lady owes to herself, to her domestic circle, and to society. Not only should she endeavor to please in address and in apparel, but, whenever possible, in complexion and in feature as well. Facial embellishment is to a lady as proper, and oftentimes as necessary, as are the address of her raiment, the artificial graces of her respectively attractions. adornments of her raiment, the artificial graces of her conversation, or other mertricious attractions upon which depend so much of her dominion and influence over man. The woman who permits herself to become unlovely, who resigns herself hopelessly to the ravages of time, and the spollation of her charms, visits upon her friends and admirers a sorrowful regret that it becomes her to avert to the latest day. Of this social duty it may truthfully be said that she can best acquit herself by the use of GOURAUD'S OLYMPIAN CREAM. No other preparation approaches this in excellence, in harmlessuess, and purity. Its advertisement has hitherto been its merit, its recommendation by all that have used it, and not by sounding and pretentious adver-

The Mayo Coupon-Case--- A Card from Mr. W. L. Royall.

To the Editors of the Dispatch: As it seems that this case is to be tried upon appeal from Judge Minor's order, to the public I may be pardoned for asking, as Mayo's counsel, a brief hearing upon one point: In the State of Thursday evening, and in the Dispatch and Enquirer of Friday morning, it is stated that Mr. Attorney-General Daniel had given it as his opinion that Judge Minor ought not to have overruled the motion of the attorney for the Commonwealth to either retain Mayo in custody or bail him until the case could be brought to the attention of a higher court for review. It was said that Mr. Daniel based his opinion upon the fact that there is a special statute in relation to appeals in such cases.

It is due to Judge Minor to say that if any application was made to him to bold Mayo to bail I did not hear it. I should most certainly have resisted it to the bitter end, and, as I think I shall presently show, with every reason to believe that I should have been successful. It is true that before the Judge went upon the bench, or any one had any reason to believe what his decision would be, a desultory discussion took place in the clerk's office between the Commonwealth's attorney, myself and the Judge as to his right to retain the prisoner in custody in case he should announce it as his opinion that he was illegally restrained of his liberty, but I heard nothing whatever about bail; and after the Judge, upon the bench, announced his opinion and ordered the prisoner's discharge, I heard nothing more even of an application to retain the prisoner in custody.

But would it have been proper for the of BOARDERS as POPILS, to be educated with my children.

The location is healthy and attractive, and very convenient to the Danville railroad and county-seat. Competent teachers will be employed and best care and instruction will be bestowed upon the scholars.

The session of nine months will begin the 1st of OCTOBER NEXT.

For terms, apply to the undersigned.

MRS. COLONEL HENRY CARRINGTON, by 13-2w Smithville, Charlotte county, Va.

18 brought, after hearing the matter both upon the return and any other evidence, Judge to have held the prisoner to bail, upon the return and any other evidence, shall either discharge, or remand, or admit him to bail, as may be proper. Under our statute the writ of habeas corpus is made to perform two functions, in a certain sense inconsistent with each other. This writ, as it existed in the time of magna charta, was designed as the great prerogative writ to which any subject might resort upon making complaint that he was restrained of his liberty without authority of law. Now, after that, when it came to be resorted to by persons held in custody to await trial upon accusation of crime as a means of securing bail, it was necessarily made to perform a function not contemplated by its framers, since the man who is held for trial upon a charge of crime is not held without authority of law, but by virtue of a mandate of the law. However, a little inconsistent though it be, it is yet of so great convenience that our Legislature has provided that it may be equally resorted to by one who claims that he ought to be discharged out and out without conditions, and one who, admitting that he has no right to be discharged unconditionally, claims yet a right to be let to bail. These remarks will enable the reader to chapter. That section is as follows: When the prisoner is remanded the execution of the judgment shall not be suspended by the writ of error, or suspended for the purpose of applying for one; but when he is ordered to be discharged, and the execution of the judgment is suspended for the purpose of applying for a writ of error, the court or judge making such suspending order may, in their discretion, admit the prisoner to bail until the expiration of the time allowed for applying for the writ error; or in case the writ of error be allowed, until the decision of the Court of Appeals thereon is duly certified." This is the statute to which Mr. Daniel referred. It obviously means that when one accused of crime comes up on habeas corpus, applying for ball, if the judge thinks that he should be bailed, and orders his discharge on bail, the Commonwealth may have a writ of error to that order: but if she take one, that the prisoner shall be entitled to go at large upon bail by the Attorney-General of the United during the time that she is prosecuting her States that the property in controversy in writ of error—that is, if, when the order is this cause is in the use and possession of made directing the prisoner's discharge on the United States, under claim of title of bail, the Commonwealth asks to have the execution of the order suspended until she filed, together with a motion for these reacan make application for a writ of error; the order shall not be suspended so far as to remit the prisoner to custody; but in the mean time, while application is being made for a review of the order, the prisoner shall go at large on bail, though the order may be suspended so far as every other matter is concerned. This must be the case in which the statute authorizes the judge to hold the prisoner to ball when he thinks he ought to be discharged.

It is impossible that the Legislature could have intended to say that when a prisoner is in custody, as the judge thinks, in utter defiance of law, that he should yet hold him in custody while the Commonwealth prosecutes a lazy writ of error to his judgment. If the prisoner were a poor man, unable to give bail, it might amount to this: that he would be incarcerated in a dungeon for an indefinite time, although the judge believed implicitly that there was not a shadow of law for holding him. If this could, by any possibility, be held to be what the statute means. yet it is to be observed that the statute is not mandatory. It provides that the judge nay, in his discretion, hold the prisoner to And it seems incredible that an upright judge could keep a prisoner in custody whom he believed to be held without authority of law when the matter in dispute was a sum of money less than one hundred $100,000. The Mayor of the city paid him dollars, and the Commonwealth could still pursue the prisoner's estate with her execution, notwithstanding his discharge.

Therefore, and I understood the motion to hold Mayo to bail to have been made I should yet have resisted it, and I believe WILLIAM L. ROYALL.

A SUGGESTION TO THE RICHMOND PAPERS. Would it not be well for the Richmond papers to urge the proprietors of the hotels of that city to lower their rates for the benefit of delegates who will attend the Convention? Times are hard, and a great numberof the delegates are men of limited means, N. B. To Tappahannock.

JAMES E. ENNIS, Proprietor.

Marion: Patriot and Herald.

Messrs. Editors,-Just now, amid the depressing "excitement" of business despondency, local politics, and race for office, t is a relief to pause and repose for the mocommunity.

The thought especially is turned just now to the Richmond College from reading the very satisfactory reports of its commencement proceedings. From a boy (alas, lang syne) the writer has been familiar with and interested in this institution. Its grounds and those of lovely old "Bellville," adjacent, were among the favorite haunts of his childhood. As a college it then claimed and possessed modest pretension; but year by year it has developed, until to-day it stands, with its able corps of professors, an ornament to the city, a realization of success to its founders and patrons. Sectarian in no bigoted or exclusive sense, it offers at our tions; nor is its patronage limited, but broad.

Now, with this cordial expression of appreciation, will the trustees pardon "a suggestion"—the average American citizen loves to make a "euggestion"-it is one heartily concurred in by several of our best-educated and most worthy citizens, or the writer would be reluctant to advance it. Connect with this institution a "milimany of the academies in the State, so successfully adopted. Provide for some gallant, efficient officer of the old army, who sacrificed his all to come to his native State to wear (and who still, in his heart, wears) the "gray." We could now point to such an one, a graduate of West Point, for some years an assistant professor of mathematics there-a gentleman of culture and and mental attainment, and of high moral worth-reduced, in only one sense, by reason of loyalty to his native State. The benetits from such an addition to the College will far more than repay the outlay, which we incline to believe can be safely aided by an endowment fund by contributions for the purpose. It will be popular. It has been successfully tried elsewhere. Military bearing, with military precision and accuracy, as a habit, development of figure and muscle, will supersede the stoop and slowly gait, disorderly habits, and want of method so common to young students. and so prejudicial to health and so opposed to the graceful. The drill excites emulation and gives style and development to the figure. The uniform, with other merits, is an element of economy, and goes far to oblit-erate the often painfully-realized distinction between the college dress of young gentlemen of large and small means.

But we purposed merely to inoculate the suggestion. Let the trustees ask Generals Joseph R. Anderson, Joseph E. Johnston, Colonel E. L. Hobson, and others, what they CITIZEN. think of it.

No member of any ring can be nominated any candidate before the convention. "I have been asked to-day about the political significance of my visiting Europe at the same time as ex-President Grant. As I have said before, no political significance whatever should be attached to my trip. If there were I should not go abroad. I have been represented as making statements about the Democratic ticket in the State of New York this fall. Such representations, however honest, are mistaken."

On being asked about his opinions affairs in the South, he said: "I think it will turn out all right. I believe the Democratic party, has a glorious see the exact force of section 12 of the same future, particularly in the South, and that there its highest ambititions will be realized through the enforcement of Democratic political principles and the destruction of partisan rings." THE ARLINGTON ESTATE-THE DEFENCE OF THE GOVERNMENT INDICATED .- It would seem, says the Norfolk Landmark of yesterday, from the following order, which was made by the Circuit Court of the United States yesterday, that Attorney-General Devens intends to fight the suit of General Lee to recover the Arlington estate on the technical ground that the property being held as owners in fact by the United States, and the United States being exempt from suit by individuals, the suit of General Lee must be abated. The hearing of the motion is fixed for the 4th of September, at Alexandria. The order of the Court is as follows: George W. C. Lee vs. Frederick Kaufman and others .- Suggestion having been made record, and such suggestion having been sons to set aside the declaration and to dismiss the proceedings, and for such other orders as may be proper, as more fully appears by such suggestion and motion on file in the office of the clerk of this court at

THE EARLY BIRD CATCHES A WORM .- A elegram from Washington to the Philatelphia Times says: General Harry White has arrived here from the White Sulphur Springs, en route for Pittsburgh. He found Bayard Taylor, General Early, and many other well-known personages there enjoying the waters. General Early was in com-mand of the "rebel" forces that captured General White in the Valley. The two warriors talked their battles o'er as they drank their sulphur water. General Early spoke of his raid into Pennsylvania, and said that the good people of York had still of it. an account to settle. He assessed them for $28,600. There is still due $71,400, with interest, which General Jubal Early proposes to place in the hands of a collector. General White says that Early isn't reconstructed worth a cent.

On the 27th they will be at a kind Providence, do really exist in our Petersburg, and the 28th they will be at Richmond. Mr. Secretary Ott, of our Postal Committee, informs us that up to this writing one hundred and seventy delegates, representing twenty southern cities, have reported to him; and from other advices he has re ceived he thinks the whole number will reach not less than two hundred and twention promises to be a very august affair. A number of the delegates from the South have indicated their intention to come by very doors good collegiate advantages, with Richmond. In order to accommodate the moral training, to all classes and denomina- large number that will start from here the Old Dominion Steamship Company have placed the steamship Old Dominion at the service of the Postal Committee, and it will leave for Old Point at 3 o'clock on Tuesday evening next. The delegation from Richmond will be full.

It is understood that when the President and party leave Old Point they will come by special steamer up the James to Richmond, stopping on their way at "West-over," the seat of Major Drewry, president tary professorship," with military drill, as over," the seat of Major Drewry, president at Lexington and Blacksburg, and even by of the Virginia State Agricultural Society, where they will remain for an hour or two enjoying the hospitality of that noted homestead. At Westover they will be met by the committees of the two branches of our city government, and such committee as the Governor may appoint to represent the State, who will proceed to that point in a special steamer. The functions of the Postal Committee will end at this stage of experience, unusually gifted in intellect the proceedings. Arriving at Richmond. the distinguished party will be received in a manner befitting their character and the the annual sermon, which was preached by ancient reputation of the Old Dominion.

Our city authorities will be busy enough from this time out, and we know nothing will be left undone to give éclât to the occasion. It is also understood that Mr. Nöltmerce, will appoint a special committee from the members of that body to act in conjunction with the other committees named.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM A FALL.-Yesterday afternoon, while a number of workmen were engaged in taking down the west wall of Mr. Pizzini's residence, corner Grace and Eighth streets, with a view of adding to the height of the house, the scaffolding on which John Pryor, Mr. William Gibson, James Matthews, and a man named Epps were at work, gave way from the heavy weight of bricks piled on it, and Pryor and Epps were thrown to the ground and injured. The Dover . Baptist Association commenced its ninety-fourth annual session in the Baptist church at Ashland on yesterday morning at 11 o'clock. This body is one of ty-five. Delegations have also been soli- the oldest and most influential of the Bapcited from the great trade organizations of tist district associations in Virginia, em-Boston, New York, Philadelphia, and Bal- bracing all the churches of that denominatimore; and it is believed they will re-spond. Taken altogether, this Conven-ing from Caroline and Goochland between the James and York rivers to Chesapeake bay, numbering 47 churches and about 8,000 white members.

CALLED TO ORDER. At the appointed hour Mr. James B. Winston, moderator of the last session, called the body to order, Rev. J. B. Jeter, D. D., leading in prayer. The letters from the churches were read by Rev. John William Jones, D. D., clerk of the Association, assisted by Rev. Edmond Harrison. Thirty-one churches reported at the morning session, and the names of their delegates were enrolled. The moderator and clerk were appointed committee on the application of new churches for admission. Visiting ministers and delegates from other associations were invited to seats.

Association, and Rev. M. W. Staples, general agent of the Virginia Bible Society, and the pastors of the Ashland churches, were among those reported as present. ANNUAL SERMON. After appointing the usual business committees the Association took a recess to hear

Rev. J. R. Garlick, D. D., from the text, Ye are Christ's." After the sermon, the very large congregation present adjourned to the college-grounds, where they were invited to paring, president of the Chamber of Com- take of a bountiful repast which had been prepared for them by the people of Ash-At 3 P. M. the Association reassembled in
